RBTL WELCOMES MORE THAN 13,000 PATRONS TO LAUNCH 2025-2026 M&T BANK BROADWAY SEASON

RBTL is extending its thanks to the more than 13,000 patrons who attended performances of "Clue" at the West Herr Auditorium Theatre October 21-26 to launch the 2025-2026 M&T Bank Broadway Season and the show's North American tour. RBTL would also like to thank its patrons for their continued patience throughout the past year as we worked to enhance the theatre-going experience for all.

For many, "Clue" was the first opportunity to see the new improvements to the building. The most recently completed project included the West Herr Performing Arts Center's newly reimagined west entrance and drop-off area and the corridor leading to the lobby. Those who used this entrance over the course of the eight performances of "Clue" also had the opportunity to experience the restored Floreano Room, a new pre-show and post-show entertainment space.

Those who entered the building from East Main Street noticed that the work on the front steps and lawn is nearly complete. One set of stairs on the West Herr Auditorium Theatre side of the building is freshly poured and useable, thanks to the quick work from Pike Construction Services. Their crews are now actively working to complete the stairs leading to the Performing Arts Center lobby. These enhancements are the latest in PROJECT RESTOURATION, meeting the evolving needs of patrons and dramatically improving guest experiences.

"As people see the new spaces for the first time, the most common word we're hearing is it's 'shocking,' and I think that's going to be the emotional response people will continue to have," said RBTL CEO Arnie Rothschild. "It's a very intensive project, but it's going to be a place that Rochesterians are going to brag about, and that's our goal."

Back to the new entertainment space, the Floreano Room opens 90 minutes prior to curtain, offering a variety of refreshments – including a revamped menu courtesy of Palmer Foods. In addition to beverages, also available for purchase are sandwiches, charcuterie and desserts, with gluten-free options. The Floreano Room is also open for coffee and desserts following performances.

"The great thing about the Theatre now, is that it's an all-inclusive experience," said Palmer Foods Corporate Executive Chef Tom Chamot. "I'm glad we're elevating it to a point nobody else has done, at least in Rochester."

"We want to exceed the expectations, we don't just want to meet them," added Palmer Foods CEO Kip Palmer. "There are going to be some options that everyone really enjoys, but we're also going to change it up. We believe audiences will have fun and it's going to be a night at the theatre."

The new bar in the restored Floreano Room, open 90 minutes prior to curtain.

And it certainly was a night at the Theatre during "Clue's" engagement! Many patrons took advantage of the Floreano Room's earlier opening time to grab a drink or a snack, and relax before the start of the show.

"I'm very impressed," said patron John Ryan. "This is my first time here in ten years, and it's amazing. The work that they've done is really great."

Longtime RBTL Season ticket holders Jan and Jim Buch added, "We knew something was coming, we just didn't know what and it's fabulous. Compared to what it used to be, what they have done here is fabulous. People have to come to see this."

The new baguette sandwich (ham or turkey & cheese) now offered in the Floreano Room.

Muffins are available during matinees, while assorted pies & cake slices are offered at all performances.

A charcuterie cup is now available on the menu.

The Cornell/Weinstein Family Foundation is a multi-generation foundation started in 1986. Over four decades, the foundation has contributed to a broad number of critical institutions and programs.

"We have had a long-standing commitment to fostering educational opportunities as well as a commitment to vibrant theater," said Cornell/Weinstein Family Foundation Executive Director, Linda Cornell Weinstein. # ROCHESTER MAYOR ISSUES PROCLAMATION AS CLUE LAUNCHES NORTH AMERICAN TOUR & RBTL'S 2025-2026 M&T BANK BROADWAY SEASON

City of Rochester Mayor Malik D. Evans has issued a proclamation as "Clue" launched both its Second North American tour and RBTL and Albert Nocciolino's M&T Bank Broadway Season at the West Herr Auditorium Theatre and Performing Arts Center. Prior to the Opening Night performance, Mayor Evans took the stage to declare Tuesday, October 21 "Clue Day," presenting the proclamation to "Clue" director, Casey Hushion, and playwright, Sandy Rustin.

"Whether you are a fan of the popular board game or the classic 1985 movie, 'Clue' is a show you won't want to miss," said Rochester Mayor Malik D. Evans. "On behalf of the entire Rochester community, I want to welcome the cast, creative and production teams, and thank them for selecting the beautiful West Herr Performing Arts Center as their home base to rehearse, prepare and kick off both their upcoming North American tour, and the Rochester Broadway Theatre League's 2025-2026 Broadway Season."

This proclamation comes after the company of "Clue" spent nearly two weeks in Rochester ahead of their engagement holding technical rehearsals. During this time, the cast and crew were out in the community utilizing hotels, restaurants and other businesses, boosting the local economy.

Rochester Mayor Malik D. Evans presents Clue director, Casey Hushion, and playwright, Sandy Rustin, with the "Clue Day" proclamation on stage.

"We are ecstatic that another production has chosen Rochester as the launching point for its tour," said long-time RBTL partner and presenter, Albert Nocciolino. "Not only is the company taking advantage of a historical venue to hold technical rehearsals, but they are also immersing themselves in a city that has so much to offer."

"Clue" was the first show of RBTL's 2025-2026 Broadway Season. It will be followed by "& Juliet," "Spamalot," "Wicked," "Kimberly Akimbo," "A Beautiful Noise" and "Suffs."

6-Show Season Ticket Packages are available now for the remaining shows in RBTL's Broadway Season. Patrons can choose the performance they wish to attend (Tuesday-Sunday, including matinees), and preferred seating/pricing.
